

INDIANA PTA SPONSORSHIP
Indiana Congress of Parents and Teachers, Inc.
everychild.onevoice.

Indiana PTA . . .

- is a statewide, self-governing organization of over 30,000 members.
- implements policies and programs determined by local unit and council convention delegates.
- works cooperatively with other state organizations on behalf of children and youth.
- advocates before decision makers for children's rights and promotes and supports legislation improving the welfare of children.
- provides current information, guidance and training, as well as other services, to its local units and councils.

National PTA . . .

- for over 100 years, has been the largest volunteer child advocacy group in the United States.
- consists of parents, teachers, students and other citizens active in their schools and communities.
- is a leader in reminding our nation of its obligations to children.
- has over 6 million people belonging to this nonprofit, noncommercial, nonsectarian and nonpartisan organization.
- offers current information, programs, guidance, publications and training to state and local PTA groups thus equipping them to work with their communities on issues affecting children and youth.

As a 501(c) (3) not-for-profit educational organization, Indiana PTA is authorized to accept tax deductible charitable contributions in coalition with state and local agencies cooperating to influence policy makers on the health, education, welfare and safety issues affecting children and youth.
